A swift-moving story, thrilling with interest, bright with "the glory that was Greece." The plot holds the attention without slackening through every scene. The excitement of the Isthmian games, Athens under the cloud of certain, hopelessly unequal war, give way to the pageantry of the Persian camp before Thermopylae, or overlooking the land-locked bay where the little, overmatched, but cornered ships of allied Greece fought the navies of the East. Picture follows picture, strong, clear, alive with color and motion. But through it all runs unbroken the thread of tense interest in the fate of Glaucon, winner in the Isthmian games, outlawed as traitor, yet—

IAN MACLAREN'S NEW NOVEL IS READY

Graham of Claverhouse

The First Book by the Author of "The Bonnie Brier Bush" written in Four Years

"GRAHAM OF CLAVERHOUSE" is a splendid novel of love, intrigue, and adventure. Through every line breathes the spirit of vibrant human nature and flashing local color. It is the historical romance of the century, instinct with poetic feeling and impelling dramatic charm.

John Graham, Viscount of Dundee, scion of the haughty, impoverished house of Claverhouse and kinsman to the martyred Marquis of Montrose, was one of the most heroic, brilliant, picturesque figures of his stormy age. Always in the thick of trouble, equally ready for love or for war, he flashed like a bright meteor through the troublous, dark politics of the latter seventeenth century.

This is the splendid virile character, neglected by lesser romance, that Ian Maclaren has chosen as hero of his masterpiece. And he has created a heroine worthy of the dashing Claverhouse in Jean Cochrane, the mettlesome Highland beauty, who stands out, never to be forgotten, among the host of fiction folk. It is a novel that will live to be talked of in two continents.

THIS great $150,000 Series of New Copyright Fiction is now complete. Twelve of the very popular authors of the day have given their latest, and some are their BEST, works to be published. They have been brought out in the same excellent style, the same printing, binding and illustrating as regular $1.08 books, and yet the price is only

50 Cents Each. By Mail, Postpaid, 60 Cents

THE OTHER ELEVEN TITLES ARE LISTED BELOW

The JOHN C. WINSTON CO., Philadelphia

FOR many years we contemplated issuing a book for women, but decided that we would never do so unless we procured an author of unquestioned reputation to write the book for us. A book of this kind, if not prepared by one high in authority, is an absolute menace to the health and morals of the women who consult it, and it is safe to say that of the many books prepared on the subject is the only book that is absolutely safe and reliable.

DR. M. SOLIS-COHEN'S

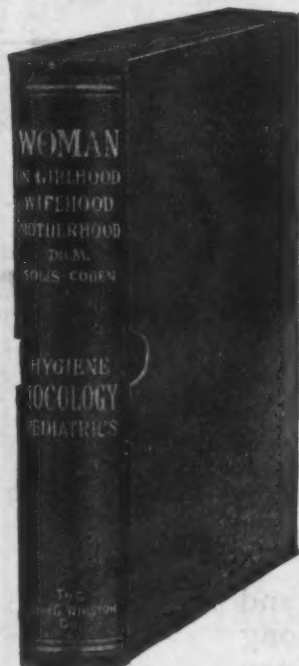

WOMAN In Girlhood Wifehood and Motherhood

We Challenge the Publishers of other books on the subject to send copies of their works for review to such institutions and authorities as have commended Dr. Solis-Cohen's work. It is a well-known fact that the medical profession is not inclined to endorse publications intended for lay readers, and therefore when a work of this kind receives such high endorsement it must mean that it possesses exceptional merit.

EXTRACTS FROM RECENT COMMENDATIONS

From "THE JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION," Chicago, Illinois, April 6, 1907.

"As a book for the wife and mother, and a guide to such domestic medicine as is really desirable, this work meets all requirements of clearness, simplicity of language, accuracy of statement, and temperate, judicious treatment of delicate subjects. The work appears to be one that the physician can cordially recommend to his patients, and deserves a place in every home."

From "THE MEDICAL BULLETIN," Philadelphia, April, 1907.

"... It is a work written especially for the housewife, and is therefore gotten up in simple language and clear explanations, so that it may be readily understood. Most reliable and valuable information to the mother is given concerning the care of herself during the different stages through which women pass. ... The work certainly deserves highest recommendation by all practitioners to their patients."

From "THE OHIO STATE MEDICAL JOURNAL," March 15, 1907.

"Women—in girlhood, wifehood, motherhood—a blessed trinity which unite to form 'A Perfect Woman.' The book comes to satisfy a long felt want. It will be welcomed by all women and is a work the practitioners would do well to recommend to their clientele. Many a woman in seeking a knowledge of herself has accepted books in their entirety, the teachings of which have been partly false and wholly misleading, because a few well-known facts were truthfully told. In reviewing the book in question, we have everything to say in its praise and commend the Dr. Editor. ..."

From "THE MILITARY SURGEON," Carlisle, Pennsylvania, April, 1907.

"There have been so many quackish books upon the subject of woman, her functions and her illnesses, that the appearance of a scientific text book upon the subject for popular use should be heartily welcomed. In the work of Dr. Solis-Cohen the demands of the subject have been excellently fulfilled. ... The book is one which the physician may safely recommend to his patients, and which the patients may read with profit and advantage."

The Best Western Story of 1907

LANGFORD OF THE THREE BARS

"There are some stories which, for no definable reason, seem touched with the spirit of youth and vitality. Such a tale is 'Langford of the Three Bars,' a vigorous, well-shaped story of 'cattle-rustling' and conflict on the wide, lawless plains of South Dakota. It is a stirring story, full of strength and color, quick with abundant, dramatic action, cheered by a happy ending. The writers know well the times and country in which they have placed their vital events and actors, and they know, too, how to ring the changes on love and adventure and the tonic outdoor spirit in simple but most effective way."—Chicago Record Herald.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. publish to-day a volume entitled "Sojourning, Shopping and Studying in Paris," a handbook, especially for women, which concentrates the essential information of many guide-books.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish on the 11th inst. "The Woman" (Malombra), by Antonio Fogazzaro, translated into English for the first time. They expect to issue at the same time "Painted Rock," by Morley Roberts. "Painted Rock" is a town in South Pan-Handle, Texas, and this narrative of its leading citizens, their histories and their affairs is sure to appeal to the reader. Mr. Roberts is a most vigorous exponent of the "man's life."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY will publish on May 10 Mrs. Thompson Seton's book, "Nimrod's Wife," a charming description of trips, on horseback and on foot, through the West and in Norway. Upton Sinclair's "Industrial Republic," a study of industrial conditions in America, will also be issued on this date. The author of "The Jungle" in this new book discusses the conditions which he believes will exist before another ten years have passed.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will bring out on the 10th inst. Charles G. D. Roberts's new book, "The Haunters of the Silences," which is considered by competent critics to contain the finest and strongest work on animal and nature life which the author has yet done. With much appropriateness the book is dedicated to Charles Livingston Bull, the illustrator who has visualized Mr. Roberts's word-pictures with rare sympathetic drawings. In power of insight and dramatic expression of the life of the animal world, and the wilderness of land and water, these two artists, author and illustrator, stand well in the fore.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have ready this week "The Creed of a Layman," by Frederic Harrison, who as a philosopher, historian, essayist, religious leader, and even as a writer of fiction has made a deep impress on contemporary thought and literature; the third volume of "The American Colonies in the Seventeenth Century," by Professor Herbert L. Osgood, which deals with imperial control and the beginnings of the system of royal provinces; "Practical Problems in Banking and Currency," edited by Walter Henry Hull, with an introduction by the Hon. Charles Francis Phillips; "The Coming of Philibert," a romantic drama in verse by Sara King Wiley; a new and revised edition of "Outlines of Industrial Chemistry," by Dr. Frank Hall Thorp; also, a revised edition of the "University Text-Book of Botany," by Douglass H. Campbell.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready in their Memoir Series "Lady Mary Wortley Montagu and Her Times," by George Paston; also, "Charles James Fox, a Commentary on His Life and Character," by Walter Savage Landor, which, though written in 1811, now for the first time sees the light in the centennial year of the Whig statesman's death. The several volumes of this series undertake to present, each of them, a study of character as connected with environment and an analysis of the influence exerted by each character upon the men and women of his own generation, and upon men and women of future generations. They are fully illustrated. They will bring out next week "The Sinner," the third of Fogazzaro's novels, of which "The Saint" and "The Patriot" were the predecessors. This romance, an impassioned love story, involving in the telling faithful pictures of the life of the Italian world of fashion, far surpasses its predecessors in purely human interest.

General Alexander was Chief of Ordnance in the Army of Northern Virginia, and afterward General of Artillery and Chief of Artillery in Longstreet's Corps. In addition he was a West Point graduate and an engineer officer of the "old army" before the war. These are strictly "military" memoirs, devoted primarily to criticism of the strategy of the war on both sides, approached from the point of view of military science. Personal reminiscences, characterizations, and anecdotes, however, abound in it.

"To be efficient is more difficult than to be good," says the author, who has had a wide experience in organized charity work as general agent of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The inefficiency of the majority of the workers or helpers in these organizations has prompted this work, which is written with a directness and broad intelligence that is most stimulating. It is addressed to the layman and "aims to awaken desire to know the essential facts regarding the administration of business, health, school, church, juvenile court, hospital, charity, bequest and government." Many of the chapters have appeared in the magazines. A few of their titles are: "The goodness fallacy," "Statistics ostracised," "The business doctor," "Efficiency in making bequests," etc.

At the defeat of the Russians at the battle of the Yalu River a prominent Russian officer is captured and sent to a military prison in Japan. His wife, on hearing the bad news, starts at once from Petersburg with her maid for Japan. Her journey thither is graphically described. On all sides she hears derisive cries against Russia and nothing but praise for Japan. At last she reaches her husband, whom she finds has been wounded. To be near him she becomes a Red Cross nurse, and we get vivid pen pictures of Japanese life and of the bloody battlefields from the lips of Russian prisoners. The book is published anonymously, the writer however being evidently a woman of rank.

By the author of "The Upton letters" and "From a college window." A young man, whom an unexpected legacy has freed from the necessity of leading an active life in the world of affairs, passes his days in peaceful reflections upon the quiet joys of life, to which he would win other men. He tells of his life with great simplicity. His mother, his books, his undergraduate days, his youthful friendships, his literary work, his father's friendship, with other quiet episodes of a tranquil life, are woven together with the tender sentiment of a man of sincerity and refinement.

Marjorie Neyland is the daughter of an English innkeeper; she has spent much time in London studying art, and is both beautiful and refined; she has a sister, handsome, too, in a rather coarse way, who is spitefully jealous of her. Marjorie is the object of three men's devotion, each hoping to make her his wife. One of the three is murdered and, as his death benefits the other two, they become objects of suspicion. A clever detective handles the case, and the reader is led from one mystifying chain of evidence to another, to a most unexpected ending.

There have been few problems of American history so productive of discussion and so seemingly far from convincing solution as the authenticity of this remarkable North Carolina document, which bears such a marked resemblance to the great declaration that followed it the year after. Mr. Hoyt's book is an exhaustive study of original sources. Its purpose is to prove that during the Revolutionary War a series of resolves passed in Mecklenburg County May 31, 1775, were transfigured by the imperfect understanding and recollection of many persons into a declaration of independence, and that the several versions of the paper purporting to have been adopted May 20, 1775, trace their origin to rough notes written in 1800 by one who attempted to reproduce from memory the substance of these resolves.

A young Englishman at thirty-five finds himself the heir of an uncle whom he has scarcely known. Accidentally in examining his new possessions he finds secreted in a desk a chest which contains jewels and documents which point to a strange family history. To elucidate matters the young man, with his most intimate friend, sets out for the kingdom of Stromburg, the scene of the brief story the papers have revealed to him. Then follows the well-known intrigue of the false claimant, who would marry the beautiful Duchess, who is the true heir; the killing of the "pretender" by the knight-errant, and a satisfactory denouement all around.

Another story of the Pennsylvania "Dutch" by the author of "Tillie," rich in their peculiar and amusing jargon, and in fresh character sketches. The hero is Peter Kinross, a young professor of psychology from a neighboring college, who is spending his summer vacation in this remote corner of the country, on the Morningstar farm. A young girl, "Eunice," claimed by the family as an adopted daughter, is far above her surroundings, and quickly attracts Kinross' attention. His wooing of her is unique. He also penetrates the mystery that envelops her, the result being an interesting story.

The author is late lecturer and examiner National Health Society and member Sanitary Institute, England, and vice-president and examiner British College of Physical Education. His book supplies in a small compass the knowledge that is essential for the keeping of the "home life (personal and domestic) in order." It falls, therefore, naturally into two divisions, first, "The life, or personal hygiene," which briefly describes the general construction and working of the human body in health and disease; second, "The home, or domestic hygiene." Although the book has a scientific basis the style is attractively untechnical.

Written especially for the laity. The literature of the great religion known as Christianity consists of the collected writings known to the world as the Bible. The book is divided into: Religious life and literature; Religious literature; Interpretation and inspiration; Truest Bible study; The Bible and its times; Christianity since Bible times; Christianity to-day. The writer considers the Bible as morally and religiously much superior to the sacred writings of Mohammedanism and Brahminism; he contends Christians should be willing to have the Bible intelligently compared with Sruti, Tripitka or Koran. It appeals beyond all other writings to the very best in the human soul.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 4, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CREDIT TRADE.

It would no doubt be somewhat of a revelation to small retailers, or to the retailers in small towns, who are apt to regard the credit customer as a sort of necessary evil, to learn of the enormous efforts that are made by the large stores to secure just that class of trade, and that the credit customer is not only most cordially invited, even urged, to increase his account, but that he very often meets with more courteous treatment from the sales force than does the occasional cash buyer.

Much as such discrimination in treating customers is to be deprecated, it is easily accounted for. The credit customer is regarded more as an attached customer than is the one who pays cash and "shops" around. Indeed, credit customers are cultivated principally for the reason that they are supposed to confine their purchases to the shops where they have accounts rather than scatter their allowances here, there and anywhere. Then, too, it is quite possible that some managers encourage their assistants to prefer the credit customers because they are apt to buy more liberally and of more expensive goods than do those who pay cash. This is especially the case with bookbuyers. The cash customer is apt to buy closely to his needs, and is rarely tempted beyond them unless the bait happens to be one of those bargains which every one feels can come around but once in a lifetime. The credit customer, on the other hand, who is not obliged on the spot to separate himself from any of his ready money, can be coaxed with little trouble to view a business proposition through the eyes of his particular friend, the bookseller. He may have in mind a "windfall," or contemplate a transaction in the way of "selling a dog," or his "ship" may be coming in—all these, be it understood, in the happy future—and so he flits, butterfly fashion, over the tempting display set out for his pleasure and makes his selection with the satisfaction that he is patronizing the muses while providing for his intellectual profit. He knows full well that the day of reckoning will come; but he takes comfort in the fact that it is not here to-day.

But the bookseller's day of reckoning comes around almost every day, and the oftener he puts off his creditors, the publishers and manufacturers, the less favored will he be. It will therefore be good policy for the dealer with small means to leave the race after credit customers to those who have larger capital to put out than he has. Unless he limits his credit customers strictly to those who are known to have consideration for tradesmen and to pay their bills at regular if not stated periods; it will be only a question of time when his capital will be tied up in outstanding accounts and he be without the sinews of war—the necessary means to develop his business. Financing credit trade is an art in itself, beset with many difficulties, and might better not be undertaken by those unacquainted with its intricacies and ramifications. About three out of every five business failures bear witness to this startling fact.

It was Marshall Field's opinion that a small retail business should always be done for cash. There no longer exists the occasion for long credit in retail business that did years ago, as even the farmer in these days can get cash for anything he has to sell. Merchants who keep their business well in hand, sell for cash and pay for goods at short time, taking advantage of all cash discounts, should have no difficulty in keeping the pot a-boiling without getting into hot water themselves.

THE trouble with the man who never makes mistakes is that he doesn't know a mistake when he makes one. He who never makes a mistake never makes anything. The only crime in making a mistake is making the same one twice. Wise men make mistakes; fools continue to make mistakes. A thought of one's own mistakes will soften criticism of others' mistakes.

A SHAKESPEARE EXHIBIT.

AN exhibit of first editions of Shakespeare and contemporaneous works about him and his works was opened on April 30 in the bibliographic room of the library at Columbia University, in New York City, to be open to the public for two weeks.

The collection contains a dozen first folios. In addition there are fifty later folios and between fifty and sixty volumes, each containing some early reference to Shakespeare, which appeared before any collection of the dramatist's plays were printed. Added to this there are about eighty plays, printed over Shakespeare's name, now generally thought to be spurious.

NOT GIVING AWAY $1.50 BOOKS.

To attract readers to Eliza Calvert Hall's new book, "Aunt Jane of Kentucky," Little Brown & Co. recently offered to send gratis the first chapter of the book entitled "Sally Ann's Experience," printed separately. Imagine their surprise when they read a literary note in the New York Sunday Herald to the effect that the entire book, "Aunt Jane of Kentucky," was being given away to introduce a new author. As a result Little, Brown & Co. have been besieged with requests from persons willing to take advantage of such a generous offer. This will entail a lot of correspondence to explain that the offer is limited to a reprint of the first chapter of the book. The announcement was made in that form in the clearest manner possible, and how it could have been read otherwise is a puzzle.

THE NEW THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

A. L. LAWSHE, who has succeeded E. C. Madden as Third Assistant Postmaster-General, according to The Fourth Estate "is another example of a country publisher working his way up in the political world. Born in Somerset, Ind., in 1860, he went to Converse in 1883 and began the publication of the Journal, which he managed for thirteen years, serving meanwhile in various public offices, including that of postmaster.

"In 1897 he was appointed deputy auditor of the Post Office Department, and has been in the Government service ever since. His work in auditing the postal accounts in Cuba resulted in the exposure and conviction of E. C. G. Rathbone and C. W. F. Neely.

"For seven years Mr. Lawshe audited government accounts in the Philippines, a task at once laborious and delicate, for during the time when it was performed the establishment of a civil government was going on and a close supervision had to be kept over vast expenditures.

"Asked about his policy in relation to second-class mail, the new Third Assistant Postmaster-General said: 'I can hardly say that my policy has been formed as yet. I will first have to go through the records and see what has been done before I can say what ought to be done in the future. But, broadly speaking, I can say that such policy as I shall have will consist in administering the law as I find it.

There has to be the application of common sense in the interpretation of any law, and I believe when the publishers of the country find that no legitimate publication has anything to fear from this department they will not be uneasy. A lawbreaker always has ground for apprehension, but not those who do not violate the law. I cannot say what will be done, as I have not yet had time to inform myself. This much is true, however. I have been a newspaper publisher in a small way myself, and can, I think, look at these questions from the standpoint of the publisher.'"

A CATALOGUE OF THE MORGAN MINIATURES.

JOHN PIERREPONT MORGAN is preparing a catalogue of his collection of miniatures. The work is being directed by W. Williamson, the noted English authority on miniatures, and will be a sumptuous and costly volume. Forty copies of the book will cost $2500 each, and forty more $1250 each—$150,000 in all. Mr. Morgan intends to give a copy to those of his friends who are interested in miniatures, and also to a few favored collectors and public art galleries. It is probable that an edition less limited in number will be reproduced by the best mechanical process, of which a copy will cost $50. Twelve of the best painters of miniatures are at work on the first edition de luxe. Each artist is copying a certain number of the original miniatures.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

ONCE a year the American Booksellers' Association, as already noted, gives a banquet at the close of its convention, which has become one of the great social events of the trade. The Booksellers' League, The Booksellers of New York, The Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers and The Boosters send strong delegations, and help make the occasion not only festive, but also representative. The banquet this year will be held at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York, on May 15, and the committee, through its chairman, Charles A. Burkhardt, announces an unusually good literary programme. Among the speakers who have accepted are Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, author of "My People of the Plains;" Gelett Burgess, author of "Are You a Bromide?," "The White Cat," etc.; R. F. Outcault, the creator of "Buster Brown;" F. R. Chapman, author of "Bird Life," etc.; W. F. Hornaday, author of "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies," and Louis Joseph Vance, author of "The Brass Bowl." Mark Twain hopes to be able to attend, and so do Arthur Stringer, author of "The Wire Tappers," and Professor Wickes, of Syracuse. The tickets, at $2.50, are now obtainable from Mr. Burkhardt, with E. P. Dutton & Co.; Mr. Butler, with Brentano's, or any member of the banquet committee.

BOOST CLUB'S MAY DINNER.

THE May dinner of the Boost Club—the last of the season—will be held at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Monday evening, May 20. The committee has decided to make it a "Japanese Night," and have secured some of the most prominent Japanese residents as speakers.

The Boost Club has established an Employment Bureau in charge of the scribe, H. D. Shipman, 207 Van Buren Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. An accurate record will be kept of all applications of those who desire positions and those who have positions to fill. From these records Mr. Shipman will make arrangements for interviews between those who want help and applicants for positions. These services will cost members nothing, but a nominal charge of 50 cents to employes and $1 to employers will be made to those not members. Whatever income may be derived from this source will be put in a separate fund and used for defraying the expenses of the bureau.

CHICAGO COMMERCIAL ASSOCIATION

JOHN B. FAY, of A. C. McClurg & Co., has been chosen chairman of the committee of the division of booksellers and stationers of the Chicago Commercial Association. The other members of the committee are P. F. Pettibone, of P. F. Pettibone & Co., and F. D. Gibbs, of Shea Smith & Co. Toby Rubovits is chairman of the division of printing. The object of the organization is to make Chicago better and bigger. Plans have been made to increase the membership and erect a club house.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN KELS INGRAM, the political economist, and author of the ballad "Who Fears to Speak of '98?" or "The Memory of the Dead," died on May 1 at Dublin, Ireland. He was one of the dons of Trinity College. The work by which Ingram is best known and most likely to be remembered is the famous ballad, "The Memory of the Dead," which is fervidly written in the Irish revolutionary spirit. Until T. D. Sullivan wrote "God Save Ireland," in 1867, it was the "Marseillaise" of Ireland. Professor Ingram himself is said to have bitterly regretted writing the poem. All his views and associations in his later life were the very antipodes of revolutionary. Professor Ingram was born in County Donegal, Ireland, on July 7, 1823. He was the son of a clergyman and was educated at Newry School and Trinity College. He was appointed a Junior Fellow of Trinity in 1846, professor of oratory and English literature in 1852, regius professor of Greek in 1866, and librarian in 1879. He was a member of the committee for publication of ancient laws and statutes of Ireland, a trustee of the National Library in Ireland and a Visitor of the Science and Art Museum, Dublin. Professor Ingram wrote many books, among them "A History of Political Economy," which was translated into nine European languages and Japanese; "Outlines of the History of Religion," in which he declared himself a positivist, and sonnets and other poems.

WILLIAM GIBSON COLESWORTHY, whose bookshop on Cornhill was for many years one of the best-known landmarks of Boston, died in Dorchester, on April 18. Mr. Colesworthy was born in Boston, on March 16, 1851. After passing through the preliminary schools he entered Harvard University in 1870, but in 1872, on account of ill health, was compelled to withdraw. For a few months he re-entered, following which he was enrolled at Yale. He afterwards entered Boston University, where he graduated with honors from the College of Arts, and later, from the Theological School, receiving there the degree of S.T.D. in 1877. In the fall of 1877 he entered his father's old book store, 66 Cornhill, Boston. On account of his father's age he remained in the business thirty years, although when he entered the store he expected to remain only a few months, as he wished to make teaching his life work. With his father the business goes back to the year 1837, making seventy years that the business was run by father and son. Daniel Clement Colesworthy, his father, was the son of Daniel P. Colesworthy, a Bostonian who settled in Portland, Me., where the younger Daniel was born July 11, 1810. When fourteen years old he was apprenticed to a printer, with whom he worked until 1837, when he opened a bookstore in Portland. In 1850 he went to Boston and opened a bookshop on Cornhill, in the store below the one then occupied by Burnham. When the building adjoining the Lilley Building was completed, in 1852, Colesworthy moved into the upper story, where the business has remained until the present. As the proprietors of one of the most widely-known repositories of rare and antique literature, both father and son became known beyond most men in the booktrade of Boston. In years gone by Longfellow, Holmes, Lowell, Emerson, Wendell Phillips, Garrison and other prominent men were accustomed to visit the store to purchase books and to talk with Mr. Colesworthy and his father, who were men of culture and literary attainments as well as booksellers. The elder Colesworthy, as a writer, was well known for his excellent verse. His first volume, entitled "Opening Buds," appeared in 1838. This was followed by "A Group of Children," "School is Out" and "A Day in the Woods." Among his single pieces the best remembered are no doubt "Little Words," "Never Say Fail" and "Don't Kill the Birds." Daniel C. Colesworthy died on April 1, 1893. The younger Colesworthy was a member of a number of organizations, and will be missed by hundreds of friends who always received a cordial welcome at the old bookshop on Cornhill.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SAM WALTER FOSS has promised his publishers, Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., that he will place in their hands early in May the material for a fifth volume of poems to be entitled "Songs of the Average Man."

MRS. HASTINGS PARKER, who died recently, having passed her hundredth year, published a novel in 1859 entitled "Bentley Priory," and earlier still, in 1838, she appeared as an author with "Adele: a Tale of France," issued under her maiden name of Randall. Mrs. Parker was a niece of Miss Fanny Randall, the friend and companion of Mme. de Staël, who died in her arms.

MRS. H. M. LOTHROP, (Margaret Sidney,) has placed in the hands of her publishers, Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., the manuscript for an eleventh volume of the famous "Pepper" books, to be entitled "Five Little Peppers in the Little Brown House." Those who have examined the manuscript are enthusiastic, and say that it will be the best of all the "Pepper" books, hard as this may be to realize.

FRIENDS of the late Mrs. Craigie, ("John Oliver Hobbes,") have formed a plan for a memorial to her. Joseph H. Choate has promised to further the project in America, and in this he will be aided by Richard Watson Gilder and W. W. Appleton. It is proposed that the memorial shall include a portrait plaque in marble or bronze, to be placed in University College, London, a replica of the plaque to be placed in a suitable place in the United States; a scholarship for the study of modern English literature, to be given annually in England, and a similar scholarship to be given annually in this country.

A GRANDSON of the poet Southey, and son of the late Vicar of Kingsbury, Charles Harold Southey, described as an author, with no fixed abode, was recently charged with begging at Crewkerne, Somerset, Eng., and sent to prison for fourteen days. He asked to be sent to prison for a month, saying his case was a hopeless one, and was due to drink, but the request was refused. The poet Southey secretly married a Miss Frickers, of Bristol, in 1795, and in 1803 settled at Greta Hall, Keswick, where he had the three households of the Coleridges and Mrs. Lovel on his shoulders. Southey was married a second time, in 1839, to the poetess Caroline Anne Bowles.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Imprint is the title of a little illustrated periodical which is published by the American Bank Note Company, of New York City. The color work is admirable, and a part of the first cover design is an excellent example of what is called geometrical lathe work, a kind of engraving used for bank notes, which cannot be counterfeited.

The Post Card Quarterly, published by Alfred Holzman, 340 Dearborn Street, Chicago, has succeeded the Post Card Monthly, because it was found impossible to issue the magazine oftener than every three months. There is also in the field a Postal Monthly, published by Curt Teich & Co., Inc., 117 Lake Street, Chicago, which like its quarterly competitor is sent free to all dealers in post-cards.

THE Allgemeine Buchhändlerzeitung, now in its fourteenth year, desires to bring itself to the attention of the American booktrade. The journal is published weekly, and devotes itself to the book, art, music and stationery trades. Besides able and interesting articles on matters relating to the trades represented, the journal contains a weekly record of the new German books, music, etc. The Allgemeine Buchhändlerzeitung is published by Emil Thomas, in Leipzig, who is also the editor.

THE London Publishers' Circular for April 20 contains the advertisements of twenty-five publishers issuing editions of out-of-print and copyright books at from 6d. to 3s. 6d. the volume. The advertisements are made easily accessible by a ten-page index of four quarto columns. The publishers represented are George Allen, David Bryce & Son, George Bell & Sons, John Murray, Religious Tract Society, Chapman & Hall, Milner & Co., Sampson Low, Marston & Co., Archibald Constable & Co., George G. Harrap & Co., Longmans, Green & Co., Macmillan & Co., Thomas Nelson & Sons, James Nisbet & Co., Oxford University Press, C. Arthur Pearson, S. W. Partridge & Co., George Routledge & Sons, Siley, Smith, Elder & Co., T. C. & E. J. Jack, Collins, H. R. Allenson & Co., and Charles J. Thynne.

APROPOS of peace congresses and international comity comes a new magazine, the Review of Internationalism, which is edited by the office of the "Foundation for the Promotion of Internationalism" at the Hague, and which is to appear every two months in an English, a French, a German and a Dutch edition. The object of the Review, according to the preface, is "to give an idea of all that has been done and thought in the field of internationalism, but more especially of what still has to be done in the future." The statement gives an enumeration of various societies and the like, whose members are bound together by a common interest, such as organizations for political, economical, and moral interests, those for scientific interests, hygienic interests, and commercial interests. A league is to be formed, to be called "The Foundation for the Promotion of Internationalism," with its seat at the Hague, which is to take up the work begun by the "preparatory bureau." Articles by Björnsterne Björnson, William T. Stead and Francis William Fox are among those in this first number. They treat of the plan itself, which was originated by the editors of the Review, P. H. Eykman and Paul Horrix; of international peace, bibliography, architecture, life insurance and the like. The department "Internationalia" includes notes on publications, schools, bulletins and congresses of international interest. The American agents for the publication are G. E. Stechert & Co., of New York City.

PERSONAL NOTES.

FREDERICK WILLIAM OWEN, Western representative of The Century Company, was married on April 27 to Miss Alfa Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Taylor, of Long Beach, California, formerly of Fort Worth, Tex. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents and was attended by a number of the representatives of Eastern publishing houses, Frank W. Shoemaker, of the Penn Publishing Company, acting as best man.

GEORGE H. DANIELS, head of the advertising bureau of the New York Central Railroad, has retired from active service. Mr. Daniels began railroading at the age of fifteen as a rodman on the Chicago and Pacific Railroad, of which road he became freight and passenger agent. In 1889 he was appointed general passenger agent of the New York Central. He originated the Four Track News, and was an "especial" friend of every drummer on the road, by whom he will always be affectionately remembered.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

OTTO HARRASSOWITZ, Leipzig, has just brought out the first volume of what for convenience sake might be called European Book Prices Current, inasmuch as it is a record of books sold in European auction markets, exclusive of the English salesrooms. The work is entitled "Jahrbuch der Bücherpreise: alphabetische Zusammenstellung der wichtigsten auf den europäischen Auktionen (mit Ausschluss der englischen) verkauften Bücher mit den erzielten Preisen." The compiling and editing has been ably done by C. Beck. There are recorded 3901 books disposed of in thirty-two sales, of which one was held in Amsterdam, one in Berlin, one in Frankfurt-on-the-Main, three at the Hague, two in Heidelberg, eight in Leipzig, fifteen in Paris, and one at Vienna. The titles are arranged alphabetically under author or first word of the title if published anonymously. (10+237 p. 16°, cl., 8 marks.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., who have been in the book business at the Archway, 365 Washington Street, for upwards of thirty years, have leased the four-story building at 14 to 20 Franklin Street, next to the corner of Washington Street, adjoining the station of the new Washington Street subway. The building was formerly occupied by the New England News Company, which is now installing itself in new quarters at 93-101 Arch Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The E. H. Colegrove Company, medical booksellers, have removed from 65 Randolph Street to 67 Wabash Avenue.

HARRISBURG, PA.—A. G. Lehman, bookseller, has moved to the corner of Third and Herr Streets, where he has a much larger and improved store.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MANY are the variants of the famous warning to the stealers of books. Here is an old one from Scotland: "He yat stelis yis Buyk fra Me, god gif he be hangit one ane tre. Amen for me, amen for the [thee], amen for all good company. Teste manu propria."

THE CENTURY Co. will publish shortly a new book by Ellis Parker Butler, author of "Pigs is Pigs" and "The Incubator Baby," to be called "The Confessions of a Daddy."

HARPER & BROTHERS have just brought out "Stolen Treasure," by Howard Pyle, stories of buccaneers and pirates, of danger and daring, with illustrations by the author.

GINN & COMPANY have published under the title of "Letters to a Painter" a series of articles on painting written by W. Ostwald, professor of chemistry in the University of Leipzig, collected and translated by Professor H. W. Morse, of Harvard. The volume presents a timely criticism of the present antiquarian and philosophical methods which are applied to the scientific side of art.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY announce a novel entitled "The Lonesome Trail," by John G. Neihardt, who has taken for his special field the characteristic life on the Western plains. Mr. Neihardt spends part of every year living among the Omaha Indians. Those who have read the advance sheets of his book are of the opinion that he has sounded the most virile and original note since Jack London first began to picture the West.

THE AMERICAN GYMNASIA, Boston, have just published "May Pole Possibilities," by Mrs. Jennette E. C. Lincoln, a book treating from a somewhat technical standpoint the Maypole festivities, with dances, marches and costumes, as a form of physical training. This use of the Maypole festival dates from 1898, when it was introduced at the University of Illinois by Mrs. Lincoln, director of physical training in that institution.

JOHN P. MORTON & Co., Louisville, Ky., have published for the Filson Club a volume entitled "The Quest for a Lost Race," by Dr. Thomas E. Pickett, who bases his arguments on the theory of Du Chaillu, that the English-speaking people are descended from the Scandinavians rather than from the Teutons, from the Normans instead of from the Germans. The volume forms No. 21 of the club's publications, and is illustrated with maps and portraits.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just brought out a new edition of the "Rubáiyát," containing the five versions, comparatively arranged, with twelve illustrations in color by Blanche McManus. Other new editions ready this week are D'Annunzio's "Triumph of Death," (fifth printing;) Julia Magruder's "A Sunny Southerner," (sixth printing;) Miss MacGowan and Mrs. Cooke's "Huldah," (third printing;) and Mrs. Starr's "Gardens of the Caribbees," (third printing.) They will bring out in the fall Robert Neilson Stephens's posthumous novel, "Clementina's Highwayman."

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION, 11 Pine Street, New York City, announce a new book by Ian Maclaren, entitled "Graham of Claverhouse," the hero of which is John Graham, Viscount of Dundee, scion of the haughty, impoverished house of Claverhouse and kinsman of the Marquis of Montrose, one of the most picturesque figures of his stormy age. This is the twelfth and last volume of the series of novels for sale by only one bookseller in each city. The Association has in preparation a new series to be sold on a new plan, of which particulars will be published later.

Two of A. C. McClurg & Co.'s Western stories brought out this spring have jumped at once into popular favor—"Langford of the Three Bars" and "The Iron Way," the former a story of strenuous life in Dakota, the latter a romance of the building of the Central Pacific Railway. The first edition of "Langford" was 15,000 copies, and the advance sales exhausted a good proportion of this number. Of "The Iron Way" a fourth edition has just been put to press within five weeks of date of publication. Orders for both books have been cabled from Australia, where McClurg's fiction is now considered a staple article.

WE desire to call the attention of our readers to an error that inadvertently crept into the notice of William Dean Howells's "Through the Eye of the Needle" recorded in the Weekly Record in our issue of April 27. The notice there reads: "The first part, now slightly changed, was published in 1894 under the title 'A Traveller from Altruria.'" This was a misapprehension based on unverified memories. In "A Traveller from Altruria" the traveller and his views of America are described by an American. In the second, or American part of "Through the Eye of the Needle," America is described by the Altrurian, and the Altrurian portions and the delicate romance are, of course, entirely new.

IN announcing "Alice-for-Short," the new book by William De Morgan, the author of "Joseph Vance," Henry Holt & Co. advise the trade that they have decided to make the list price of the book $1.75 instead of $1.50, and that when the fourth edition of the author's previous book, "Joseph Vance," is ready the price of that also will be advanced to $1.75. The increase is due to the fact that as each of these books contains 280,000 words, or about two-thirds more matter than the average $1.50 novel, their manufacture at the present high prices for labor and material is also considerably more expensive. Another reason given for this departure is "the hope that it may be a step toward a closer relation between value and price in fiction."

ROBERT GRIER COOKE, INC., 307 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will have on private view for a short time a collection of some of the original catalogue proofs of a very famous collection of Chinese porcelains. These porcelains, which are among the chief treasures of one of the greatest collectors in the world, are the finest examples of porcelains of the various Chinese dynasties, and have been collected at great cost during many years. The plates in color are the work of Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., and are noteworthy as being particularly fine examples of lithographic facsimiles. The delicate and subtle colorings of the porcelains are wonderfully brought out and interpreted and even the most delicate tints are fully shown.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS is bringing out a book by Joseph S. Tunison, entitled "The Dramatic Traditions of the Dark Ages." This is a work in a much neglected but fascinating field. It is usual to regard the "Dark Ages" as a gulf which cuts the history of the drama sharply in two. The author maintains, on the contrary, that the drama had a continuous life. To support this position he has recourse to various little-known authorities, Byzantine and other, and builds up a history of the drama of the Dark Ages. Aside from the theories set forth, there is a novelty about the contents of the book which will prove of interest and utility even to those who have read much. Those who quarrel with the author about definitions of the drama may nevertheless find the material which he has transferred to his pages suggestive and useful for purposes of which he had no idea whatever.

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF CORRESPONDENCE, Chicago, will bring out on June 1 a series of twenty-five practical and scientific books to be handled by the trade only. The volumes in preparation are G. Townsend's "Carpentry;" "Gas Engines and Producers," by Wyer and Marks; "Masonry Construction," by Phillips and Byrne; "Water Supply," by F. E. Turneure; "Highway Construction," by Phillips and Byrne; "Reinforced Concrete," by Webb and Gibbons; "Management of Dynamo-Electric Machinery," by F. B. Crocker; "Steam Engines," by Leland and Snow; "Electric Railways," by J. R. Cravath; "Estimating," by Edward Nichols; "Contracts and Specifications," by James C. Plant; "Stair-Building and Steel Square," by Hodgson and Williams; "Valve Gears and Indicators," by Leland and Dow; "Strength of Materials," by E. R. Maurer; "Electric Telegraph," by Thom and Collins; "Mechanical Drawing," by E. Kenison; "Power Stations and Transmission," by G. C. Shaad; "Pattern Making," by James Ritchey; "Surveying," by Alfred E. Phillips; "Steel Construction," by E. A. Tucker; "Building Superintendence," by E. Nichols; "Architectural Drawing and Lettering," by Bourne, von Holst and Brown; "Machine Shop Work," by F. W. Turner; "Tool Making," by E. R. Markham; and "Machine Design," by C. L. Griffin. The volumes will be bound in red art vellum de luxe and will retail from $1 to $1.50 the volume.

THE Alumni of the New York City College will publish early in June, through G. P. Putnam's Sons, a memorial history of the college. The volume will be illustrated by drawings, and by more than 100 photographs taken by Harry Coutant and designed to preserve a permanent record of the old buildings and of the college life within them. In addition to a history of the college by Richard R. Bowker, the volume will contain personal reminiscences of college days, prepared by a series of distinguished alumni, including Professor Alfred Compton of the earliest class, Everett P. Wheeler ('56), Russell Sturgis ('56), Professor Adolph Werner ('57), President Ira Remsen of Johns Hopkins ('65), Dr. Robert Abbe ('70), and Julius M. Mayer ('84). The series of C. C. N. Y. songs will be presented by Principal Henry E. Jenkins ('75). The Civil War record of the alumni has been prepared by General Henry E. Tremain ('60), and is based upon the general's recollections and upon data furnished by members of the war-time classes. President Finley will bring the record of the college up to date, and Edward M. Shepard ('69) will outline the aims and purposes of the future. The editors of the volume are Philip Mosenthal ('83) and Professor Charles F. Horne ('89). The title of the book is "The City College: Memories of Sixty Years," edited for the Associate Alumni of the College of the City of New York by Philip J. Mosenthal, M.S. ('83), and Charles F. Horne, Ph.D. ('89).

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Just Published—For the Amateur Gardener

FOUR SEASONS IN THE GARDEN

By EBEN E. REXFORD

 A BOOK on gardening for the home-maker by the foremost amateur gardener of the United States. It treats of all phases of the subject, from the simple bed or two along the fence, in a city back yard, to the most ambitious garden the happy suburbanite or country dweller can manage without the services of a professional.

The growing of house plants, and the use of plants for household and table decoration, are important features of the book. Two chapters on Rural and Village Improvement carry the home-gardening plan into the larger field of community work.

Sumptuously illustrated with 27 pictures in tint, and frontispiece in colors. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50 net.
